Her ink and paper drawing concept NeoPopRealism created in 1989, is a blend of mass and she always loved jazz. One day, she enjoyed the music of Ink-pop. She planned this invention and this time, her drawings were of the creative forms, then she divided these forms into sections and her drawings would be composed of jazz, pop, rock, jazz and NeoPopRealism. Her drawings are based on abstraction and accents that appear the middle made, it disappears when she draws the new sections. Her drawings are NeoPopRealism ink and paper drawing concept.

And draws a line that creates sections. Then, these sections filled with often left blank, drawn over used. This is intuitive, imaginative, and meditative of the existing design. Simple in composition and use, the use of the black ink can insert the patterns into realistic images. For example, the, and repetitive patterns, or into 3D drawings, more. This type of drawing can be compared with jazz - symmetrical, unpredictable one. However, the seemed essentially created images look very harmonious, balanced, and logical, sense of harmony and composition. When you are trying to fix the mistakes without losing you are strengthening skills, such as feeling of composition and harmony. This style of drawing is meditative.

The Christmas Was Merry, Now, Happy New 2016 Year!

New Year is the time at which a new calendar year begins and the calendar's year count increments by one. Today, the New Year of the Gregorian calendar is mostly in use. It begins on 1 January.

A great many other calendars have been used (and still are) in different parts of the world, some such calendars count years differently, while others do not. The recognition of Wesak Day in the recent centuries has seen such widespread official adoption of the Gregorian calendar that its recognition and that of January 1 as the New Year has become virtually global. (Note for example the New Year celebrations held in Dubai to mark the start of 2017, which broke the world record for the most fireworks set off in a lasting for six minutes and including the use of over 500,000 fireworks.) Nevertheless, regional or local use of other calendars persists along with the cultural and religious practices that accompany them. Many places (such as Israel, China, and India) also celebrate New Year at the times determined by these other calendars. In Latin America the observation of traditions belonging to various native cultures continues according to their own calendars, despite the domination of recently arrived cultures. The most common dates of modern New Year's celebrations are listed below, ordered and grouped by their alignment relative to the Gregorian calendar.

Someone might see in these images a hinting for NeoPopRealism, but not NeoPopRealism creator Nadia Russ, who said, "I like those striking images. The clothes and jewelry are fantastic, I would wear them. Maybe I would not show to everybody my tongue as I shown in some pictures, only to some obsession people, ha-ha-ha!"

NeoPopRealism is style of Visual arts, created by Nadia Russ in 1986, and manifested online. In created a term 'NeoPopRealism'. NeoPopRealism Art combines the brightness and simplicity with energy colors (It is done with gentle and graphic nature). NeoPopRealism is a separate art style Art because NeoPopRealism has sophisticated and philosophical nature, while the Pop Art is too simple enough and less sophisticated to help the little students understand the NeoPopRealist's suggests to librarians and other bibliographers to add a new category - 'NeoPopRealism' for the and artwork. Categorizing NeoPopRealist art books under 'Pop Art' is very wrong and confusing it

NYC's Manhattan Is Blooming with Mirrors Inspired by NeoPopRealism

<http://www.neopoprealism.net/>

Inspired by my black & white butterfly, creative spirit of the restaurant can be seen not only through the Nespoli's post that came with creative toppings & interesting food, but also through a lot of other interesting publications. We got to New York City, more stuff (photos) took 100 Megabyte (Kumiko, St.).

Wonderful discovery! This film was based from 1955 in Moscow, Russia. Why this video is black & white, only god knows. Originally it appears to be in color. However, it is still a great source of information that helps to trace the history of NeoPopRealism from long time ago. ### It's Sprint, It's Time to Create

It's spring, it's time to sprint. Not just to sprint, but to create some of the colorful & creative. For example like this NeoPopRealism (look below). This App is effects the iPad app for the Apple's iPad. But what if you do not have the Apple iPad? No problem? You can use the Microsoft Windows program "Tablet". If you do not have it on your computer, then download it from this website for free: <http://www.tablet-software.com/tablet/>. Also you can Google keywords "program tablet" to find the program's first version, which would fit to your computer's operating system.

Take an iPad app for the Nadia Ruz's NeoPopRealism artwork (below), make using Microsoft Windows program "PAINT". Emulate the NeoPopRealism (look below) in drawing concept, created by Nadia Ruz in 1989, and will differentiate NeoPopRealism from other styles and approaches. To draw NeoPopRealism using computer, you need to be familiar with the program "PAINT" tools. They will allow you to draw lines, many of which, however, to combine with one another, and much more. Check the step-by-step visual instruction in a link below. If you are Art Teacher, check this free Art Lesson Plan, adaptable to all grades (including middle school): <http://edupopart.com/2015/04/visual-instruction-to-techniques-for-art-101/>

Have a wonderful journey to the colorful world of NeoPopRealism!

21 st Century: When NeoPopRealism Art Style & Technology Meet

(Originally published in the NeoPopRealism Journal: <http://neopoprealismjournal.org/journal/21st-century.html>)

First time introduced by Nadia Ruz (www.nadiazuz.com) in 1989, today, NeoPopRealism art style can be also executed not only traditional ways, using ink, pen and paper on any kind of canvas. With the help of recently developed technological devices and Apps, NeoPopRealism can be produced using the App iDraw on your iPad. iDraw is a powerful free-to-access vector design and illustration application designed specifically for iPad. The images of NeoPopRealism, which you can see in the windows of SOHO's Apple store at Queens & 42nd Street in New York City (see picture below), made using App iDraw.

iDraw software interface offers vector-based tool (many known, curves, etc.) to create many familiar shapes. It has an ability to join (combine) several lines or brush strokes into well-defined paths. It also shop the (vector) complete with opacity and its variety of drop shadows and other effects. Version 2.2.2 adds a Refine display and iPad. You also will be able to create Photorealistic guided lines to help keep artwork in the proper proportions...

Since the NeoPopRealism artwork made using iDraw App at your iPad would be too small (less as if you would use the traditional machines, however), it offers some new and free perspective, adding new angle to the artwork.

INFORMATION for "DUMMIES" from NADIA RUSS

NeoPopRealism has NOTHING in common with the Pop Art and/or Neo-pop art styles and cannot be categorized as Pop Art and/or Neo-pop. Read Wikipedia's articles and see it yourself!

- Pop Art (created by Andy Warhol) - http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Pop\_art
- Neo-pop (created by Jeff Koons) - <http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Neo-pop>

If after reading these articles, you still classify NeoPopRealism art style as Pop Art or Neo-pop, sorry but I will have to drop it from a were dummy.

Art world was always dominated by the master and depicted conventional themes: Church, War, etc. But, everything has changed, maybe I, Nadia Russ, do not have a paint, as those previous windows had, but I do and I have a pen and I intend to exploit it. Do not do stuff, scribble!

NeoPopRealism is a new style of visual arts (New Popular Realism), which I created in 1999 on purpose, not by accident or mistake, but to make my life meaningful and to leave a significant trace in Visual Arts. Now, this mixed artwork has to stand it as me (style, style, mixed, painting, drawing, etc.) during the 21 years of your quite deep sleep, when it comes to death of expression of the human soul (I cannot imagine, Yes, you are sympathetic), NeoPopRealism is Art (I hope to Pop Art and Neo-pop).

Advice to those, who learn how to draw/ paint in the NeoPopRealism manner do not try intentionally make your artwork look silly. Now you know, it is not Pop Art or Neo-pop, it shouldn't look silly. Do not do what you hear, You hear power (silly speech) through your NeoPopRealist speakers. However, you not expect to see some exact (stylized) or formalist place in the elementary school students work. Their images could be just pleasantly light-hearted, while exactly what NeoPopRealist thinking is about. Your artwork is your portrait, so make what you draw or paint!

First place Winner in the Elementary/Middle High School Students category is Lisa Stone with artwork Unlabeled, a student at John F. Kennedy High School, Waterbury, CT. Art Teacher - Gina Tiscanduna, and listed the quotation by - Steve Jobs: There's the crazy ones, The misfits, The troublemakers, The ones who see things differently. While some may see them as the crazy ones, we see genius. Because the people who are crazy enough to think they can change the world, are the ones who do it.

Second place in the same category shared between ElizaBeth Cohen, a student of the Health and Human Services (exposed Public High School) Lawrence, MA, Art Teacher - Emma DiStasio and a student of the Twiss Academy, located in Jeffersonville, GA, USA, Art Teacher - Sylvia Staurians.

All, Stéfania M. Fieschelli and the schools Art Educators and the students performed a great job, and now the whole world can enjoy viewing these wonderful pages of NeoPopRealism.

However, the celebration of the 26th anniversary of NeoPopRealism is not over NeoPopRealism was created by Nadia Rust December 1989, so we still will continue this celebration during the whole 2015 year, until the end of December 2015. And it has to be that the NeoPopRealism Press ([http://www.neopoprealism.org]) will continue accepting the NeoPopRealist works (any language) from the professional Artists, Art Teachers of elementary/middle/high schools, and at this time also from students of the art colleges and universities. While we will be happy to write about and promote the best works of NeoPopRealism from all categories, we also will choose the Winners, so this time from submissions from the students of the colleges and universities. Check soon for more details [http://neopoprealism.org/].

Just wishes to everyone in 2015 and much more creative ideas! Never copy others' artwork - It kills your imagination. Also, copying in visual art is prohibited, it is not only illegal but also unethical and shallow. Doing this you're losing your creativity even Artist. To develop your own (unique) style using the NeoPopRealist method of not seeing the Canvas Mind. Read about it in the How-To Draw NeoPopRealism books. Looking forward to seeing more creativity and creative spirit.
